New Construction Cleaners

Done right, new construction cleaning of new brick, architectural block, or stone building reveals the true beauty of the masonry. It's the final touch that brings home all the hard work of the architect, specifier and contractor.

And yet new construction cleaning of new masonry buildings is just a tiny fraction of the overall construction cost.

Done wrong, it can cost you more than you'd ever believe in time, money and reputation. Done wrong, your new building's appearance may be ruined beyond repair.

Excess mortar, mud and other job site soiling has to come off the new building before it's ready for the client. PROSOCO's new construction cleaners help make sure it comes off quickly, easily and safely.

Every product PROSOCO manufactures in its state-of-the-art plant in Lawrence, KS, is backed up by warranty, safety information, toll-free telephone technical support and — if needed — free job site visits from factory-trained field representatives.
